For once, a typically boorish headline in the Sun on UK foreign aid got me thinking — who decides who gets what when it comes to these resources? The numbers are pretty big — around £13bn a year.

Who gets what and why — when it comes to foreign aid?

A strategy is not a mission, which is what the organization's leaders want it to accomplish; missions get elaborated into specific goals and performance metrics.

Demystifying Strategy: The What, Who, How, and Why

The book is full of short stories, examples of markets, of success and of failure, of the good, the bad and the ugly design. Roth provides answers and examples to a very important question “why markets thrive or cease to exist”. The answers provide insight as to how we can “make markets smarter, thicker and faster”.

Book Review: “Who gets what and why?” by Al Roth ...

Five whys (or 5 whys) is an iterative interrogative technique used to explore the cause-and-effect relationships underlying a particular problem. The primary goal of the technique is to determine the root cause of a defect or problem by repeating the question "Why?". Each answer forms the basis of the next question. The "five" in the name derives from an anecdotal observation on the number of ...
